

Dear Sir / Madam,

I am writing to apply for the position of BIM Modeler you advertised on Indeed. I am attaching my resume for your review.

I graduated from architecture in 2017 and after one year of work experience, I went to England to improve my English skills. I met with BIM in the seminars I attended and I found a course before returning to Turkey at Istanbul Technical University in this field. After four months of training, in 2018, I became a qualified expertise of BIM from the Istanbul Technical University (ITU). Afterwards, I was accepted to the master program related to this field. During our education, we attended a competition with my other five engineer friends and we received an award for our project designed with BIM. Then I graduated with a thesis that called "Adaptive Facade Systems and Their Classifications" from my master programme in IT in Construction Management at the Istanbul Technical University in Istanbul, where I also won the second award for my competition project. Aside from my studies, I have worked at multiple architecture practices in Turkey, including Junior architect and BIM modeller positions between 2017-2019.

As an architect, I strongly believe that design and technology are inseparable. The possibilities for leveraging BIM are endless. I am more interested in new technological developments such as AR / VR, coordination phases, modelling parts and how technology facilitates works in the construction field. I am also interested in the future benefits of this system, besides the visualization and coordination parts. Currently, we are talking about possible interoperability of BIM and GIS, and now I feel this excitement not only on a building scale but also on all cities and countries.

I learnt Revit by myself at the university and I know that software knowledge is needed to speed up the process, and I continue to improve myself in this area, especially Dynamo. My plans for the next three years include a second master in IT.

In short, BIM became a passion for me so it is important for me to take the first step in the area I will be privatized. I prepared my resume with great care and I care about the company he will put there and how many years I will work. I recently graduated from my master program and want to gain experience abroad, unfortunately, this system is not really common in Turkey. The Netherlands is my first choice because it is an important country in terms of international projects and you are very successful in sustainable approaches.

Thank you for your time and consideration. Looking forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely

Gunes Aykac
